DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Konya et al.

4. Basket forceps comprising: a slim sheath (col. 7, lines 20-24); a handling wire; a basket unit coupled to a distal end of the handling wire, the basket unit having a plurality of basket wire, each of the basket wires having front and rear ends, the front ends of the basket wires being bundled, the rear end of the basket wires being also bundled, the basket wire thus providing a basket; a tip member; a tubular basket-handling main unit; a guide wire insertion hold formed through the tip member and extending from a front surface to the tip member to an outer periphery of the tip member, a guide wire being inserted through the guide wire insertion hole. (The periphery of the tip member is the entire out side of the tip, including a front side, a back side and a side wall. The claim does not specify where the hole is on the periphery. Therefore the backside of the tip taught by Konya et al. reads on the limitation.); wherein the sheath has an insertion lumen formed therein for inserting the handling wire and the guide wire.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 4, 5, 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Konya et al.

7. Konya et al. discloses the claimed invention except for the specific tip material being made of a resin or a metal block. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the recited materials, since it has been held to be with the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416. Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a resin, a metal based, or any other material on the intended used and biocompatibility.

8. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Konya et al. in view of Wilcox et al. EP 611582 A2.

9. Konya et al. teaches the basket forceps according to claim 1. It should be noted that Konya et al. fails to teach wherein the tip member is provided with a wire bundling portion with bundles the basket wires, the tip member being also provided with the guide wire insertion hole which is not aligned with the wire bundling portion.

10. Wilcox et al. teach a device with a common tip. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the tip of Wilcox et al. as an alternate way of routing a guide wire.

Allowable Subject Matter

11. Claim 3 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
